

The Murders

London, 1888.

One by one, women of Whitechapel fell victim to a killer whose cruelty shocked the nation, yet the police were powerless to solve the crime.

Tonight, you are called to pick up the trail. Armed with headlines torn from the press, whispered rumors, and scattered clues, you and your fellow guests must untangle the mystery that baffled Victorian London...

Who was Jack the Ripper!

The Murder Mystery

London, 1888. Gas lamps flicker. Footsteps echo in narrow alleys. And somewhere in the shadows, Jack the Ripper is watching.

Trust no one. Defend your alibi. Solve the puzzles. By the final candle's burn, one of you will be unmasked as Jack the Ripper.

Dinner, drama, and murder—served Victorian style.

YOUR PROFILE:

Charles Lechmere

A deliveryman who always delivers on time...

He knows every back alley better than his own backyard, and somehow he always seems to arrive just after things get... messy. Could be packages. Could be... something else.

Costume: A soot-smudged Victorian deliveryman's coat, flat cap, sturdy boots, and a worn satchel—perfect for blending into Whitechapel's fog... and disappearing into it just as quickly.

Who committed the murders?

Sherlock Holmes	<input type="checkbox"/>
Molly Malone	<input type="checkbox"/>
Dr. Francis Tumblety ..	<input type="checkbox"/>
Mrs. Agatha Pottle	<input type="checkbox"/>
Aaron Kosminski	<input type="checkbox"/>
Matilda Graves	<input type="checkbox"/>
Charles Lechmere	<input type="checkbox"/>
Violet Adler	<input type="checkbox"/>

