

The Murders

London, 1888.

One by one, women of Whitechapel fell victim to a killer whose cruelty shocked the nation, yet the police were powerless to solve the crime.

Tonight, you are called to pick up the trail. Armed with headlines torn from the press, whispered rumors, and scattered clues, you and your fellow guests must untangle the mystery that baffled Victorian London...

Who was Jack the Ripper!

The Murder Mystery

London, 1888. Gas lamps flicker. Footsteps echo in narrow alleys. And somewhere in the shadows, Jack the Ripper is watching.

Trust no one. Defend your alibi. Solve the puzzles. By the final candle's burn, one of you will be unmasked as Jack the Ripper.

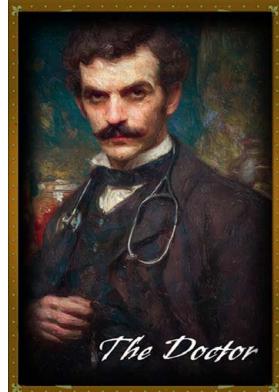

Dinner, drama, and murder—served Victorian style.

YOUR PROFILE:

Doctor Tumblety

A “doctor” whose cures are more likely to kill you than heal you. His fascination with human organs is the talk of London. One thing is certain: don’t let him take your pulse. You may not get it back.

Costume: Dr. Tumblety wears a severe Victorian black frock coat over a high-collared shirt, accessorized with a waistcoat stuffed with mysterious bottles and dubious medical instruments.

Who committed the murders?

Sherlock Holmes	<input type="checkbox"/>
Molly Malone	<input type="checkbox"/>
Dr. Francis Tumblety ..	<input type="checkbox"/>
Mrs. Agatha Pottle	<input type="checkbox"/>
Aaron Kosminski	<input type="checkbox"/>
Matilda Graves	<input type="checkbox"/>
Charles Lechmere	<input type="checkbox"/>
Violet Adler	<input type="checkbox"/>

