

The Murders

London, 1888.

One by one, women of Whitechapel fell victim to a killer whose cruelty shocked the nation, yet the police were powerless to solve the crime.

Tonight, you are called to pick up the trail. Armed with headlines torn from the press, whispered rumors, and scattered clues, you and your fellow guests must untangle the mystery that baffled Victorian London...

Who was Jack the Ripper!

The Murder Mystery

London, 1888. Gas lamps flicker. Footsteps echo in narrow alleys. And somewhere in the shadows, Jack the Ripper is watching.

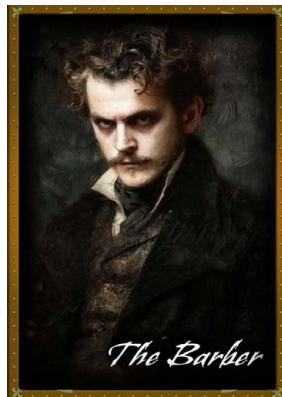

Trust no one. Defend your alibi. Solve the puzzles. By the final candle's burn, one of you will be unmasked as Jack the Ripper.

Dinner, drama, and murder—served Victorian style.

YOUR PROFILE:

Aaron Kosminski

A soft-spoken barber with a sharp-blade, and always eager to offer a close shave, Aaron Kosminski insists he only cuts hair. Still, when a man spends his days wielding razors and his nights wandering Whitechapel's streets, one can't help but wonder: is he trimming beards... or covering his tracks?

Costume: A rumpled Victorian barber's vest and shirt with rolled sleeves, dark trousers, and a well-worn apron, accessorized with a straight razor (plastic) and an unsettlingly intense stare.

Who committed the murders?

Sherlock Holmes	<input type="checkbox"/>
Molly Malone	<input type="checkbox"/>
Dr. Francis Tumblety ..	<input type="checkbox"/>
Mrs. Agatha Pottle	<input type="checkbox"/>
Aaron Kosminski	<input type="checkbox"/>
Matilda Graves	<input type="checkbox"/>
Charles Lechmere	<input type="checkbox"/>
Violet Adler	<input type="checkbox"/>

